Market Overview

The MSCI India Index fell 6.9%¹ in January, with all sectors posting negative returns led by materials, utilities and industrials. Telecom, IT and energy sectors emerged as relative outperformers. IT companies such as Infosys Technologies and Tata Consultancy Services posted better than expected results due to improving offshore business momentum. Reliance Industries led the energy sector on the back of strong quarterly earnings. The MSCI China Index fell 8.6%¹. The financial sector led the declines along with material and consumer discretionary stocks. Healthcare and telecommunications services outperformed. The Fund declined 6.0% (bid-to-bid basis), outperforming its benchmark's decline of 6.9%.

Overweight Axis Bank contributed to relative performance as earnings came in ahead of expectations with an increase in net profits of 31% year-on-year. Sun TV moved higher after posting robust earnings results on the back of increasing advertising revenues with regional markets growing at a faster pace than the domestic average. Stock selection in consumer staples helped performance as overweight Colgate Palmolive (India) benefited from top-line growth and margin expansion while underweight Hindustan Unilever declined due to higher promotional and input costs. Consumer discretionary stocks detracted from performance with overweights BYD, Focus Media and Li Ning finishing lower. A change in sentiment regarding auto sales in 2010 impacted BYD as a result of the rollback of the vehicle purchase subsidy and the potential for higher raw materials costs. Focus Media declined as the company announced that it would refocus on its core business and organic growth over the next 2-3 years. Li Ning reported that sales in 4Q09 were largely in line with management guidance and although it was below the strong double digit growth recorded in 2008. We exited Bharti Airtel, Bharat Petroleum and IVRCL Infrastructure & Projects. A new position was initiated in Bahrat Heavy Electrical, DLF Limited and Mahindra and Mahindra.
